VOL 30 BLOOMSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1895. NO 7

THE LATE BLIZZARD. SOME OF ITS DAMAGES.

The Older Ones Set to Thinking About Its Equal.--The Younger Ones Say it Was the Worst they Ever Saw.--They Are Right About it, no Doubt.

On Thursday evening February 7th, 1895, a terrific snow and wind storm, the nearest approach to the western blizzard that this section has yet experienced, set in, and it seemed to have come to stay. Though not the genuine western blizzard that defies man or beast, and that freezes all clothing as stiff as a board in less than 15 minutes, yet it pi'ed the pure white and poetical snow so high in the pathway, the roadway and on all the railroad tracks, as to temporarily check all manner of traffic and locomotion. It was for a time difficult to discover the poetry the unknown author found in "the beautiful snow." In fact the weather was such as to somewhat endanger the life of man or beast exposed to it for any great length of time. Like the western cyclone that sometimes visits us in summer, we are now beginning to have an occasional touch of their winter blizzards, though as yet they are somewhat tempered to the shorn lambs of this latitude. It is a growing condition admonishing all that in the midst of life it is well to prepare for death, in winter and summer both. But if we are entirely too spiritually indifferent for that (and I fear we are) let us at least try to break the coal combine somewhat so that we don't freeze to death for want of cornered fuel when the blizzards strke us.

The insignificant and temporary trolley tie-up in Brooklyn was as nothing compared with the blizzard tie-up in the greater part of the United States—north, south, east and west. All the suffering and death resulting from this fierce wind and cutting sleet has not been told and never will be. If wealth covers a multitude of sins, honest and modest poverty don't advertise all it knows and feels in winter or summer; if it did there would be more practical and less theoretical effort among home missionaries and theoretical workers in the moral vineyard who find themselves comfortably housed when the fierce and biting elements howl and pierce and shriek the mimicry of pain inflicted upon the highly civilized and christianized at home.

The storm in this vicinity was pronounced the very worst we have had for many years, stopping all traffic and communication temporarily from near and far. Where cellars were not thoroughly banked and closed, fruits and vegetables stored therein froze, the thermometer ranging lower for a continuous period than it had for years. The railroads centering here found it impossible to make schedule time, and in fact they found it necessary to abandon all effort to do so, after persistent endeavor had proven the futility of the attempt. All of Thursday night, all of Friday and Friday night, and all of Saturday and Saturday night, may be included in a continuous period more or less blizzardy and blustery, and during all of which time it may be said to have been positively dangerous to be out, as the reports of freezing now fully confirm.

Reports from the south, where little or no precaution is taken against freezing, indicate even greater loss and suffering than the first cold wave entailed upon that section. The ruinous influence of the storm is said to have been more or less felt throughout the south and southwest as well as in the north and northwest.

As for country roads it will take weeks in some cases for the farmers to make them passable for the public.

TESTIMONY FROM ABROAD.

Williamsport.—The blizzard struck this place most severely of anything we have had for years. It was a terror from any standpoint. People home by a warm fire were glad of it. All rail and other traffic interfered with. Thermometer three degrees below the lowest. The shivering poor relieved by orders drawn to get them coal, &c.

Lewisburg.—Thermometer ranges from 10 to 16 below zero. No attempt can be made to raise blockades until the fierce wind abates its fury. Men will not, cannot work in it. Wreck crews tried but failed in all manly attempt to stand it. The Erie mail train was buried in the snow. All trains are from one to three hours late.

Allenwood.—Train wrecked. Two engines, a baggage car, and two passenger cars thrown off the track into the snow. Passengers escape, but Engineer Ehrich and his fireman scalded and seriously hurt.

Mahaffey.—Wind, 40 miles an hour; thermometer 10 degrees below zero; all telegraph wires down. Worst storm in years.

Jersey Shore.—The streets deserted. Wind has swept them of everything presuming to live. Temperature from 6 to 10 degrees below zero. George Heyd, a farmer came to town in the morning. In attempting to return he was caught in a snow drift 10 feet deep. He escaped to town and, securing the help of 15 men, his team was shoveled out. There was too much wind for the Williamsport windmill. It stood the gale until 1:30 when it yielded to the enevitable and collapsed.

Lancaster, Pa.—The gale drifted shut all rail and wagon roads. Travel from rural districts impossible. Business at a stand still. Men shoveling snow, but suffering severely.

Harrisburg.—The wind and weather having no respect for rank or title has stubbornly resisted the home departure of the legislators who generally spend Sunday at home. The blizzard kept them in Harrisburg. Henry Gabelen was found in a box car almost frozen to death. He was taken to the hospital. Business practically suspended.

Reading.—The worst experienced since the great blizzard in 1888. Drifts from three to six feet. Public roads completely blocked.

New York.—Navigation blockaded in this harbor. Ferry boats run under great difficulties. The D. L. &. W. Railroad completely blocked. Freight traffic froze up.

Chicago.—Dispatches indicate great storm in Minnesota and the Dakotas. Temperature here 14 degrees below zero. Intense suffering in homes of poor reported; many frost bitten. Mrs. Schroeder, 75 years old, while going in search of a nurse, was overcome by the intense cold and fell and froze to death. Wm. Chase, a homeless laborer, was found in a door-way with the side exposed to the weather frozen from head to foot. Though taken to hospital, there is no hope of his recovery.

Genoa.—Twenty small vessels driven ashore. A violent storm swept the coast, doing great damage to building, piers, &c.

Denison, Texas.—The worst storm in years; a howling blizzard, blowing at rate of fifty miles an hour. Thousands of cattle are dying from exposure.

Perry, Oreg. T.—The worst we have had in twenty years.

Railroad Finances.

At the stockholders' annual meeting of the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad, on the 11th instant, the financial report showed a decrease of earnings of $532,413 over the amount earned last year. The settlement of unsettled accounts between the various roads for hauling interchanged freight is also now a matter of some concern and demand, as witness the following resolution:

A resolution was presented by David S. Thompson requesting the board of managers to bring an action against the Pennsylvania Railroad for an accounting of through freight receipts over the Philadelphia and Erie road during the past six years. It was referred to the incoming board. Mr. Thompson represented 17,000 shares.

A Printing Office Fire.

In the recent fire which started at midnight in the State Printing Office at Harrisburg, it is estimated that about $100,000 worth of property—fully insured—was destroyed. It is not known how the fire originated. Nothing was destroyed but what the legislature can easily reproduce with additional appropriations. The Annual Report of the State Treasurer was consumed in the flames, and all the manuscript of the Auditor General's Report, also, along with other State reports. The 30,000 copies of Agricultural Reports that went up in smoke can easily be replaced by printers as well as the maps and stereotype plates.

A NEW FEATURE.

We are receiving weekly, a two column letter from Harrisburg, during the present session of the Legislature, which will give our readers the run of legislative matters. It will be printed usually on the second page. It is written by an experienced reporter, and will prove an interesting feature.

MERRELL—IKELER.

A delightful affair took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. P. Ikler on Jan. 17, when a number of relatives and friends assembled to witness the marriage of their daughter, Vinnie, to Orin J. Merrell. Promptly at 5 o'clock, to the wedding march played by Prof. Ikeler, the charming bride handsomely attired in French serge, attended by Milroy Ikeler, who gave her away, and the groom and groomsman, B. J. Grimes, entered the tastefully decorated parlor, where the ceremony was performed, by Rev. E. M. Chilcoat.

After congratulations all were invited to partake of a delicious wedding dinner, prepared by the hand of an apt cateress.

The guests were highly entertained during the remainder of the evening with amusing recitations and elegantly rendered vocal and instrumental music by Prof. Ikeler.

The many useful as well as ornamental presents are as follows: Bed room suit, parlor lamp, two sets smoothing irons, music book, two sets silver carvers, art plaque, water set, two sets tumblers, doily, silver butter dish, coffee mill, large oil painting, silk throw, handkerchief case, silver cake dish, glass pitcher, cracker jar, silver table and tea spoons, silver napkin rings, silver nut pickers silver nut crackers, two sets silver fruit knives, salt and pepper cups, silver sugar shells, silver gravy spoon, toilet set, linen towels, napkins, table cloths, counter panes, silver pickle caster, flour sifter, set china fruit dishes, silver fruit spoons, hand painted china plate, bed room lamp, centre table, parlor dust bag, sofa pillow, chenille table spread, china bread plate and celery tray, china set, taxidermist crow, etc.

Those present were from Rohrsburg, Greenwood, Millville, Orangeville, Canby, Town Hill, Benton, Light Street, Bloomsburg, Mausdale, Danville, Watsontown, Hughesville, Montandon, Eckley, Iowa and Kansas.

A BIG SHERIFF'S SALE.

The Milton Record of last week says:

"There was great excitement at the Court House, at Sunbury on Saturday morning. Sheriff Noriconk sold the property of the Nathaniel Taylor company, the Penn Anthracite company being the tenants. The property consists of $2700 acres of coal land, a big breaker, store, school house, six double houses, fifty-seven single houses, engines, tracks and in fact all that make up a big coal operation. As soon as the sheriff had commenced the sale a well-dressed stranger in the crowd bid the large sum of $500,000. Congressman Wolverton went him $25,000 better, and the stranger with a silk hat bid $25,000 more. Then the bidding became lively, and at last the stranger stopped and the property was struck down to Congressman Wolverton for the sum of $700,000. The next sale was for a tract of 2040 acres adjoining the one above sold, and this Congressman Wolverton bought for the same parties for the sum of $95,000. These properties are valuable coal lands and their sale has been adjourned several times. The Sheriff's costs in these cases are about $4,000 and with a few more Sheriff Noriconk can retire at the end of his term well fixed in wordly goods."

These properties lie partly in Columbia County, and they were advertised by Sheriff Noriconk, in THE COLUMBIAN.

Sudden Death.

Mr. L. M. Hartman, of Buck Horn, while engaged shoveling snow during the blizzard, was taken with a sense of dizziness from which he never recovered. He died very suddenly on Friday morning about 10 o'clock. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn his loss, the children being all married but one. The deceased had attained the age of about 65 years. He was buried at Dutch Hill on Tuesday the 12th instant. Misses Mary and Clara Beers and Miss Sarah Thomas, relatives of the deceased, were conveyed to the funeral by Mr. John Deily.

One of Many Frozen.

While a party of farmers living at Falls Church, Va., about twelve miles from Washington, where digging through snow drifts to make a road to secure provisions and mail, they dug up the frozen body of a plasterer named Phillips, who had evidently been overcome by the storm last Thursday night.

JOHN G. JACOBY.

We were able to give but a brief notice of John G. Jacoby, last week. The following from the Berwick Independent of February 8th., is a just tribute to the memory of a good man:

"It was with profound sorrow that the news of the death of John G. Jacoby was passed from lip to lip on Wednesday morning. He had been suffering for a twelve-month or more from the effects of an attack of grip, that remorseless enemy of mankind. His afflictions were always borne with christian fortitude and a spirit of patient endurance that won for him the earnest sympathy of his large circle of acquaintances as well as his immediate family. Mr. Jacoby was well and favorably known in this community during the past quarter of a century, during the latter half of which he has served continuously as justice of the peace, his decisions seldom being reversed. In addition to this office he had for a number of years been successfully engaged in life insurance in connection with his son LeGrant, their firm being one of the most prosperous in Columbia County. Mr. Jacoby was a man clothed with many virtues, and he attached to himself in a peculiar manner those with whom he associated. His friendship was not cramped. His generosity was never checked by stinting measure. His kindliness had no narrow boundary. His mental energies were quick to be aroused. His moral perception was keen and untainted. In an unusual degree he possessed the nobler qualities that make men admired and loved.

He was born at Coopersburg, near Philadelphia, August 4, 1834, removing to this county he was married January 24, 1856, to Fannie M. Sponenberg, and to them were born five children, one daughter and four sons: Laura Amandah, Alfred, Franklin, Isaiah S., John Wesley and LeGrant S., the only one living.

The burial was to have taken place on Friday at 2 o'clock, but on account of the inclement weather it was postponed until Saturday at the same hour.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

On Thursday of last week Mrs. Letilia Everitt, of Rohrsburg, was treated to an enjoyable surprise by a visit from a sleighing party of seventy-six people, from Bloomsburg, Shickshinny, Eyersgrove, Rohrsburg and vicinity. Mrs. Everitt is seventy-seven years old, and she was much affected by the show of friendship and esteem. The party provided their own dinner, and it included lots of good things. After spending the day in an enjoyable manner they came away, leaving Mrs. Everitt and her daughter much pleased with the occasion. The following were in the party: Mr. Graham, Rev. Chilcoat and wife, Schuyler Kramer and wife, Samuel McHenry and wife, Prof. Ikeler, Mrs. W. P. Ikeler, Thomas McHenry and family, J. T. Vaughn and family, Henry Everet and family, I. M. Rote and wife, Alfred Evans and wife, John Rhone and family, John Mellick and family, Mr. Kline and wife, M. Kraner and wife, M. Harris and wife, Mrs. Everet, Margaret Everet, Mrs. Bruce, Misses Susie and Bertha Utt, Ella Kramer, Effie Folloner, Jessie Stukey, Mrs. Hess, Mrs. Albertson, Mrs. P. D. Black, Mrs. Walters and wife, Mrs. Workheiser, Hardy Ikeler, George Follmer, Susie Nagle, Mrs. Traxler, Howard Traxler, Wm. Barber, Mrs. C. A. Gillasby, Mrs. Turner Eyer.

University Extension.

It has been arranged to have the new U. E. course of lectures on Thursday evenings, beginning March 7th and ending April 11th. There will be six lectures, one each week on "Representative Authors of the 19th Century," as follows: Charles Lamb, Wardsworth, Scott, Carlyle, Thackery, Tennyson, (with the privilege of substituting Thoreau for Wardsworth).

This course will be delivered by Prof. Henry W. Rolfe, son of Prof. Wm. Rolfe, the great Shakesperian scholar. Prof. Rolfe is by far the most popular of all the U. E. lecturers, and it is a rare piece of good fortune to get him to Bloomsburg. He usually is engaged in New England and in and near Philadelphia and New York.

This course of lectures has recently been entirely rewritten and enriched in the eighteen months during which Prof. Rolfe has been recovering from injuries received in a railway accident.

The syllabus of this course of lectures costs 15c. Those wishing them before the course begins, can order them through our secretary Miss Ethel Williams. The tickets for the previous course will admit to this course without additional payment.

J. P. WELSH,
Pres. U. E. Centre.

THE LECTURE AT THE NORMAL.

Again it so happened that the weather was unfavorable on the night set apart for the second lecture in the students' course at the Normal. The students themselves were there, however, as well as a few brave ones who breasted the storm in order to get there

After the usual introductory formalities, the speaker, a man of good physique and voice, proceeded to read his carefully prepared lecture upon "What you said yesterday." To our reporter it seemed that "Language, and it Origin, Use and Abuse," would have been a better title for the address; for this was the gist of his pleasing effort. The theme being very appropriately of an educational character, may be deemed rather unfavorable for witticisms, but Mr. Hulburd managed to give his audience such happy interspersions of wit as to elicit their applause occasionally.

Language, he held, was subject to change like everything else in nature. Dictionaries can't avoid it. Though English was a conglomeration of languages, he believed it to be destined to become the universal tongue. While the illiterate often get through life with a vocabulary of 300 or 400 words, the educated have less at their command than is generally supposed. Whole books may be written without absorbing or using a fractional part of the many thousands found in dictionaries.

As to the origin of language he rather debased Adam and gave Eve the start of him in this respect. It is perhaps the strongest proof of the correctness of his conjecture to say that Eve still holds her own in this respect. As to slang (the first cousin to common swearing for sake of peculiar emphasis) while inevitable, even among certain poets and scholars, it is always to be deprecated; but more especially in sacred offices and pulpits where the refined conventionalities cannot be despensed with without loss of dignity and due respect for even the house of God or his most zealous agencies. If a face as long as a fiddle will not win, neither will a continuous monkey shine in the pulpit or elsewhere.

State Printer Busch Buys Out ex-State Printer Meyers.

This extensive and valuable plant, located on South Third street, Harrisburg, was recently bought outright by the present State Printer. There is perhaps no printing office in any ten States of the Union in which careless work has been better paid for through legislative enactment than in just this plant from whence the Legislative Record emanates after its own peculiar style and whenever it gets ready—but always too late for any immediate comment upon legislative proceedings by even weekly papers. In vulgar parlance "its a pudding," and it is far too rich to set well on the ordinary and competitive printer's stomach. The very thought of getting such a fat feast gives him the water-brash. Like the office of National Public Printer the office of State Printer is well regarded as a luscious plum quite juicy enough to dye the whiskers when bitten.

Death After a Brief Illness.

In the recent sudden death of Samuel L. Potter, a respected citizen of Bloomsburg, we are again admonished of the uncertainty of this life. After an illness of but 48 hours he expired, being in that brief time afflicted with a complication of ailments which ultimately terminated fatally in apoplexy, the immediate cause of death. In his death another soldier of the late war has passed away from the turmoils, strife and battles of this life, and another good citizen and affectionate parent will be missed by his immediate relatives and many friends. An affectionate wife and daughter, Miss Lillian, survive and mourn his loss. G. A. Potter, proprietor of the Millville Tablet, is a brother, and Mrs. M. S. Williams is a sister of the deceased. His remains were interred in Rosemont cemetery on Thursday at 2 o'clock, Rev. P. A. Heilman officiating.

To the Voters of Bloomsburg.

A rumor having been circulated that I am indifferent as to the result of the approaching election, I desire hereby to say, that if chosen President of Council, I will serve and endeavor to do my duty faithfully and in the best interests of the tax payers.

S. C. CREASY.

Withdrawn.

We are requested to announce that Josiah Ralston has withdrawn as a candidate for Justice of the Peace. His name will not appear on the tickets, and we make this public announcement at his request.

BRIEF MENTION.

About People You Know.

Mrs John Hartman is now convalescent.

S. C. Creasy returned from Lancaster on Saturday.

Col. J. G. Freeze has been ill for the past two weeks, and is slowly recovering.

Mrs. W. F. Edwards entertained Mrs. E. K. Hutchison and daughter from Berwick last Sunday.

Samuel Turnbach returned on Tuesday from Phillipsburg, where he was for a time storm stayed.

Sheriff McHenry and Louis Lowenberg took a business trip to Pittsburg on Thursday. They bagged their game all right.

W. J. Furman, proprietor of Espy hotel, and his brother, Dr. W. H. Furman, of Northumberland, were Bloomsburg visitors on Monday.

George C. Roan, forman of this office, has been so seriously indisposed with a touch of grip lately as to be obliged to quit his work for this week.

Mr. Elliott Lemon, of Asbury, gave us a friendly and business call on Wednesday. Mr. Lemon is a competent auctioneer and a good practical farmer.

Mrs. Harry Grotz, lately somewhat indisposed, is again up and about. Accompanied by her daughter, Bessie, she took dinner with Mary and Clara Beers on Wednesday.

W. A. Evert, out of love and respect for an afflicted mother, worked his way home through the snow drifts on Saturday evening. He covered a distance of some three or four miles floundering through the snow, and sweating in spite of the cold.

Mr. Eli Weaver, of New Columbus, beat a homeward pathway through the snow from Zaner's on Friday afternoon. The roadway being drifted shut he took to the fields and picked his path as best he could. To get in to the armpits was easy enough, but to get out was hard work.

The Sons of Veterans' Banquet.

The popular Cafe of Mrs. Phillips was the resort of a happy throng of amateur theatricals on Wednesday evening. The occasion was a banquet given through gratitude by the Sons of Veterans to the home-talent comprised of those that played so successfully the Drummer Boy of Shiloh recently in this place. The program of the banquet consisted of eating, drinking, music and dancing.

Some 60 plates were spread, and the refreshments offered and freely partaken of were: Cold turkey, cold ham, chicken salad, potato chips, oysters and macaroni, celery, finger loaves, brick ice cream, fancy cakes, coffee, crackers, cheese, &c. The feast was all that could have been reasonably wished for, and it was fully enjoyed by all present.

After supper music and dancing prevailed until about 2 o'clock.

Inventive Genius.

Now look out for electric broilers and toasters. They are among the things of recent invention. Mr. L. T. Edwards, of Haverford, is the inventor. Another good thing among recent inventions is an automatic railway crossing signal, for which a patent was recently issued to S. Keller and W. A. Sharp, of Reading, Pa. T. S. B. Wood, of Shron, Pa., also has a patent for the manufacture of mineral wool. At present writing it makes one chilly to think about wearing mineral wool next to the hide.

HARRISBURG LETTER.

Legislators Fighting Against the School Book Trust.

INSANE ASYLUM INVESTIGATION

The Inquiry Will be Conducted by Senator Gobin and Representative Cochrane—Decreased Revenues Will Affect Charitable Institutions—Disorderly Visitors.

(Special Correspondence.)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 11.—The members of the house from the country districts are after the school book trust with a sharp stick. A bill has been introduced by Mr. Douthett, of Butler, providing for the purchase of text books at publisher's prices, which is designed to force the trust out of business in Pennsylvania. The bill was presented a week ago and is still in the committee on education. Mr. Douthett declares that certain members are trying to throttle it, but this is denied by Chairman Farr, who promises it shall be taken up and disposed of at the next meeting.

If the bill is negatived a resolution will be offered by the member from Butler to place it on the calendar. He is also considering whether it would not be a good plan to offer a resolution for a legislative committee to ascertain the cost of books furnished school boards in the state by the trust. It is claimed that there is great inequality in the prices; that some cities pay twice as much as others. Representative Lytle, the Republican leader of the house, Chairman Moore, of the agricultural committee, and Mr. Martin, of Lawrence, than whom there are no more active members, have assured Mr. Douthett of their sympathy with him, and state that if he does not want to take the responsibily of making the investigation they will gladly relieve him by offering the resolution.

The Marshall bill providing for the consolidation of competing pipe line companies will be taken up on third reading in the house to-morrow. After the measure had been read the second time it was recommitted to committe in order to give its opponents an opportunity to be heard. On Wednesday a delegation of oil producers from Butler county, headed by ex-Senator James W. Lee, of Pittsburg, were heard by the committee in opposition to the bill. Addresses were made by Mr. Lee, Clarence Walker, O. M. Russell, Colonel W. A. Clark, Amos Steelsmith and J. J. Firdicker. At the close of the argument the committee went into executive session, and by a unanimous vote agreed to report the bill. When it comes up in the house an earnest fight will be made against it under the leadership of Representative Moore, of Butler, a young lawyer of ability, and an affective worker for the producers' interests.

The Insane Asylum Investigation Ordered.

The governor has approved the joint resolution providing for an investigation of the management of the state insane hospitals at Wernersville and Norristown. The committees on the part of the house will be announced tomorrow by Speaker Walton. Representative Cochrane, of Armstrong, will be selected to conduct the investigation at Wernersville and Senator Gobin, of Lebanon, at Norristown. The governor has not yet acted upon the concurrent resolution offered by Representative Focht, of Union, for a committee to investigate the state charitable and penal institutions to ascertain how many of their inmates are aliens. The patriotic orders are back of the movement.

There does not exist very friendly relations between the governor and the senate. Private Secretary Beitler has been commissioned to submit lists of notaries public and other minor appointments in districts to the senators, with the understanding that if any are objectionable they will not be sent in. In several instances the governor has ignored senatorial objections and declined to withdraw the names. This was true in the case of Thomas Caffrey, of Pittsburg, and Frank J. Campbell, of Coatesville, whose appointments as notaries public were made against the protests of the senators from the districts interested. Senator White has "hung up" the nomination of Dr. H. S. McConnell, of New Brighton, and unless it is recalled he will be knocked out. Senator Penrose, of Philadelphia, the leader of the friends of Senator Quay in the senate, has put himself in position to have rejected the nominations of any person from that city objectionable to him.

Governor Hastings has approved the Gobin bill providing for the reorganization of the state banking department, and will send to the senate during the week the nomination of Chairman Gilkeson, of the state Republican committee, to be commissioner of banking. The nomination will be promptly confirmed. Colonel Gilkeson will enter upon the duties next Monday. He has selected ex-State Treasurer Morrison for chief of the bureau in charge of the foreign building and loan associations. The governor has also signed the bill providing for an additional law judge in Westmoreland county. The measure for another law judge in Washington county has passed the house and is on the senate calendar for second reading to-morrow. There is no objection to it, so that it will reach the governor before the close of the week.

Must Rush Apportionment Measures.

The state administration insists on the speedy passage of all the apportionment measures introduced by Republicans. The legislative apportionment committee has decided to report the bill introduced by Chairman Culbertson. It is identical with that offered two years ago by the Republicans, and will be put through the house by a party vote, and then sent to a conference committee to be shaped to meet the views of the governor. Senator Quay is urging a complete change in the congressional districts. He is anxious to have all those wiped out which have been made doubtfully Republican by the conferree system. Under the new apportionment Allegheny will get four instead of three congressmen, and Philadelphia six instead of five. The Randall district, which until last fall always elected a Democrat, will be changed. The legislative apportionment drafted by Mr. Culbertson gives Allegheny four new members, and Philadelphia, Carbon and Jefferson each an additional member. Somerset, Bedford, Lawrence, Schuylkill, Clarion, Crawford, Chester and Huntingdon each lose one. There is no change in the representation from the other counties.

Senator Baker, the author of the present ballot system, will endeavor to correct its defects. He has collected copies of the proposed changes and all suggestions that have been offered, together with the recommendations of the Ballot Reform association, and will combine them into one bill, for which a special order will be asked in both bodies. As to the constitutionality of the act in regard to voting upon questions of municipal indebtedness the title will be amended so as to cover this defect. The senator will also endeavor to amend the twenty-sixth section by requiring every voter who declares that he has a disability and requires assistance to make his statement under oath upon printed form, as now required by residence and on age. He cheerfully courts criticism of the law, and is open to any suggestions that may be made that would increase its efficiency.

The charitable and penal institutions of Pennsylvania will suffer considerably by the large decrease in the state revenues. Auditor General Gregg and State Treasurer Jackson estimate that the receipts of the next two years, on account of the hard times, will not aggregate more than $19,000,000, which is $2,000,000 less than that of the previous two years. The general appropriation bill, which includes eleven millions for the public schools, the expenses of the executive, departmental and legislative branches of the state government, the state judiciary and the salaries of the county superintendents of schools, will foot up in round numbers about $16,000,000. This leaves only $3,000,000 for the national guard, penitentiaries, house of refuge, Huntingdon reformatory, state normal schools, state boards of health and agriculture and all other state institutions, of which there are over 125 sustained wholly or in part by the state. The state board of charities estimates that it will cost a million dollars the next two years for the care and treatment of the indigent insane.

Heavy Appropriations Asked For.

The state normal schools ask for $1,100,000. The National Guard will require $700,000, the soldiers' orphans' schools $350,000 for maintenance, the soldiers' and sailors' home at Erie $30[illegible]0. A bill has been passed appropriating $[illegible]0,000 to complete the buildings and put in condition the grounds at the industrial school, at Scotland, Franklin county, and will ask for an additional appropriation of $175,000 to build sixteen double cottages to accommodate 1,000 children. If the appropriation is granted the commissioner will transfer the pupils to Scotland from the schools at Chester Springs, Uniontown and Harford, and close these institutions. If a compulsory education bill becomes a law the school appropriation will have to be increased to $12,000,000.

The legislature has established the custom of giving to the retiring governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of internal affairs and other state officials the desks and chairs used by them during their official term. Some of these desks are valued at $200.

Representative French, of Washington, has introduced a bill requiring public school teachers to open their schools by reading the scriptures from five to fifteen minutes every morning. He says everybody is responsible for this measure but himself, although the patriotic societies are urging its passage. "I did it on the broad principles of Christianity," said Mr. French. "I believe that it is right. There is too much of a tendency to disregard the scriptures in school life. I do not prescribe what the teachers shall read. They can select a passage in the New Testament to satisfy the Christians or a chapter from the Old Testament to satisfy the Jew. They can read from the St. James version so that Protestants may not be offended or from the Donay version so that the scruples of our Catholic friends may be respected."

Speaker Walton has found it necessary almost daily to call upon Sergeant-at-Arms Shoener to preserve order among the visitors and lobbyists, who crowd in the hall of the house and gossip and talk, to the annoyance of the members and the speaker. The rules committee will take this matter up at the next meeting, and it is likely that a rule will be adopted that no outsider should be permitted on the floor of the house unless introduced by a member who will vouch for his conduct. As it is, all the doors are open and anybody can enter without question.

To Improve the House Acoustics.

The board of public buildings and grounds has ordered draperies from Trimby, Hunt & Co., of Philadelphia, for the windows of the hall of the house. It is believed the draperies, with the wires strung overhead in different parts of the room, will improve its acoustic properties.

Representative Fow, of Philadelphia, believes the state should own and operate its own electric light and heating plant, and has offered a resolution for a committee to investigate the subject. The existing contract for light, which is furnished by a local concern, amounted to $12,000,000, while the contract for this year is $17,000,000. For heating, under the old contract, the cost was $5,000; now it is $7,750.

The house has passed the bill introduced by Mr. Fow abolishing the kissing of the Bible by witnesses, and substituting instead the laying of the hand on the open book. The debate on this question recalls an interesting incident about certain legislators. "I was never more surprised in my life," said a newspaper correspondent yesterday, "when I went to take a drink with Representative B. in his room. As you know, he likes a good drink, a funny story and a quiet game of poker or fan tan. Imagine my astonishment when he took the bottle from the wardrobe and sat it down on the dressing case beside a well thumbed Bible. I learned since that he has made it a practice to read a chapter in the Bible every night for years."

Manufacturers all over the state are kicking on the new revenue bill drafted by the state tax conference. They declare it will drive them out of business if it becomes a law or force them to remove to other states where the corporations are not taxed as heavily as in Pennsylvania. The Manufacturers' club, of Philadelphia, has filed a protest against the bill and asked for a hearing before the house ways and means committee before it is acted upon finally. The grangers want the bill to pass.

WANBAUGH.

Father and Son Burned to Death.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 6.—Frederick D. Miller and his 6 year-old son were burned to death at their house on Second avenue. Fire was discovered in the kitchen at midnight. Miller, his wife, children and a hired man ran to the front of the building. On the way Mrs. Miller lost the boy, and her husband returned to find him. Mrs. Miller, one child and the man escaped by jumping into blankets from the second story windows. After the fire Miller and the boy were found lying on the floor of the bedroom dead.

Again in Shape for Travel.

READING, Pa., Feb. 11.—Most of the railroads centering here are again in good shape for public travel. The Philadelphia and Reading main line trains, passenger, coal and freight, are running. The Pennsylvania is open between Pottsville and Philadelphia, as are also the Lebanon Valley and Reading and Columbia.

AN INCIDENT OF TRAVEL.

Introducing a Voluble Darky and an Embarrassed Traveler.

"On a limited train from Philadelphia recently," told a man at a dinner, "the heat in the smoking car became intolerable. Everybody suffered and fumed until somebody discovered that all the ventilators were shut. Then the porter was called and ordered to open them. As he was complying a man who looked like a commercial traveller voiced the indignation we all felt at the fellow's carelessness, quotes the New York Times.

"'What r'ye mean,' he said, 'keeping us boxed here in this furnace? You ought to have opened these ventilators long ago. We'll have pneumonia after such a Turkish bath.'

Whereupon the porter turned upon him.

"'I want you to understan', sah, you'se no right to tell me what I ought to do, sah, I knows my business, sah, an' don' need no s'ggestions from anybody, sah. I may lose my job for sassin' you, sah, but I can't help it, sah.'

"He paused a moment for breath, and the drummer, somewhat embarrassed by the tirade, attempted to stem it.

"'Oh! stop your talk,' he said, 'and bring me a couple of cigars.'

"'All right, sah. What price, sah? Nobody kin tell me what my business on this kyar is, sah; I knows it puffickly well, sah. Twenty-cent ones, sah? Very well, sah, I may lose my job for sassin' you, sah, but I want you to understan', sah, you can't tell me what I ought to do, sah! That I don' 'low nohow, sah!'

The cigars came, the drummer selected two, and handed the darkey a dollar bill and told him to keep the change.

"'Thank 'ee, sah,' pocketing the money. 'I knows my business, sah; nobody kin tell me nothin' about it, sah. I may lose my job for sassin' you, sah, but I'se got to tell you that I don' take no orders from no one in dis kyar, sah, an' I want you to understan' it, sah,' and he went off to his nook at the other end muttering his protests as long as he could be heard, while the drummer, out a fruitless sixty cents, looked helplessly after him."

Alarm Clock for Lovers.

A young man stood in the portico of an apartment house in Washington Park, Brooklyn, the other evening, and on the step above him stood a pretty girl. It was late, says the New York Sun, and the street was deserted. Despite the darkness it was apparent to the occasional passerby that the young man had the daintily-gloved right hand of the young woman within his own, while his left hand rested over it like a cover to keep it guarded. The young man was apparently trying to say good night and the young woman evidently could not hear him, for she was bending her head close to his. They stood in that attitude for nearly fifteen minutes, and might have been discovered in the same pose by the gray dawn of the morning had not something intervened.

That something was round and bright, and it came out of a sixth story window. It descended slowly, the moonlight shimmering on its silvery surface and making it conspicuous. Soon it could be seen that it was on a string and was being lowered by an elderly woman. When it dangled over the portico there was a sudden bur-r-r-r-r-r-r-ring and the young man and young woman parted like an overstrained howser. The young man seized the round and bright object which was still ringing and held its face to the electric light. The hands on the alarm clock were clasped at midnight. He raised his hat to the young woman, murmured two words in a low tone and disappeared. The alarm clock was hoisted up quickly, but the young woman was upstairs before it finally reached the open window.

The Woman to Be Avoided

She was a haughty dame, and, being on a shopping expedition with a friend, happened to catch a glimpse of an acquaintance she did not wish to recognize.

"Let us go this way past the silk counter. I just saw some one I don't care to meet."

"Who is she?" asked her friend, who did not see any one near them.

"Oh, some horrid woman with a smirk on her face. Of course, I have only a bowing acquaintance with her, and, although her face is so familiar, I cannot remember her name."

They finished their shopping, and the two ladies found themselves at the same point where one of them had seen her disagreeable acquaintance.

"There she is again. Why, I do believe she's been there all the time," she said, pointing to the person in question.

"That woman. Goodness sakes, that's yourself you see in the mirrow there."—Detroit Free Press.

Seasonable.

"Don't sit so close to the fire, Johnny; the weather isn't cold," said the boy's father.

"But I ain't heating the weather; I'm warming myself," answered Johnny, never moving from his comfortable seat.

THE COLUMBIAN,
Bloomsburg, Pa.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1895.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House have called Secretary Carlisle before them to explain the ways and means he has of raising revenue that they would like to look after themselves.

They went so far in the legislature recently as to mention the advisability of purifying the primary elections; but the infant was strangled before it was fairly born. The primary elections are too pure to suit some folks already, and of course they don't want them any purer. It would have been refreshing to have read that bill through before the Republicans consigned it to the waste-basket. That's what they did with it.

As warm a campaign as Philadelphia has experienced in years will close the night before the coming election. The anti-combine forces are working zealously, and so are those who believe in subtraction, multiplication and division of spoils. The Women's Auxiliary are also into the fight for Pattison and reform, and it would not surprise us much if the fair sex gave one wing of the unfair sex a severe plucking and clipping.

Money being very scarce in the Treasury, and Hawaii being somewhat remote, an appropriation of a half a million is asked to connect us with this "Beautiful Isle of the Sea." It is proposed to be done by cable laid by some company who will take care that the government pays them enough per yard for laying it. There may be some perishable interest on this island that need to be looked after quick as lightning; but we rather apprehend it is only one of a thousand axes to grind before Congress.

On February 15th President Cleveland will have presented to him a petition from the Women's Christian Temperance Union containing 1,121,200 signatures. There are miles of names, one after the other, mounted on 1,928 yards of canvas. A zealous Mrs. Shuman has the matter in hand, having already bestowed about two years' toil in getting up this petition. The object being to sober up and move the rulers of all nations by force of female persuasion. The extensive document will be taken abroad after Cleveland gets a look at it.

The court house officials of to-day are as competent and gentlemanly a set of men as ever filled similar positions in this county. It is hard to understand the motive that constantly subjects them to annoying attacks and petty abuse through the columns of a paper, though the true explanation of it is that they are men of integrity and character who cannot be used as tools, either in politics nor in the awarding of the patronage. This constant criticism and attempt to belittle the men regularly and fairly chosen and elected to public office by the Democrats of this county, is an insult to the honesty and intelligence of the party.

WANT THE BRIDGE LAW REPEALED.

Representative Focht of Union County Introduces a Bill to That Effect.

We publish a section of B. K. Focht's bill for the repeal of the free bridge law. It amends the act of 1881 and as amended in 1891, so that the first section shall read as follows:

Sec. 1. That county commissioners of the several counties of this commonwealth are hereby authorized to take charge of or rebuild and reconstruct any bridge over any stream or river running into or through any county, owned and maintained by corporations, where the same has been destroyed by ice or otherwise, and abandoned by the owners of the said bridge. If the commissioners shall neglect or refuse to act as herein provided, upon the petition of ten citizens and taxpayers residing in the city, borough or township in which the bridge is or was located, which petition shall set forth fully all the facts, supported by the affidavit of two of said citizens to the court of common pleas of the county, and said court, upon hearing, may issue an order of court directing that two consecutive grand juries shall view and ascertain the facts as to the necessity of the same and report to the court. If both are favorable, the court may issue mandamus for building same.

The present law, which the above section repeals, or rather amends, includes bridges crossing a street forming the boundary line between two counties, which are excluded from Mr. Focht's proposed law.—Ex.

A FEW OF THE MORE IMPORTANT LOSSES AT SEA.

While the recent loss of the Elbe has temporarily terrorized water navigators the calamity is only one of a number of sudden burials of human beings and treasure in the ocean. In the space of about 50 years the following ship wrecks and loss of life is a matter of true historical record. The treasure that went down with them is untold, not even approximated. It is possible the child is now born who will see some of the many millions of buried treasure reclaimed from the deep and at present impenetrable and unfathomable depths of the ocean. The following is a record of wrecks and the loss of life partially enumerated. The loss of war vessels and river and lake craft are not included in it, nor are the innumerable minor casualties always incident to navigating the water.

In the sinking of the Amazon, in 1853, over one hundred lives were lost. In 1863 the Anglo-Saxon went down and took with her 237 souls who never again reached the surface. In 1858 the Austria burned in mid ocean, and 470 souls were either consumed by fire or drowned in consequence. With the City of Boston, lost at sea, 191 lives were lost. In the wreck of the Borussia 200 lives were lost. The Cimbria collided with the Sultan in 1883, and sunk out of sight, taking down with her 454 passengers. The Central America, in 1847, lost 400 lives. The foundering of the Evening Star, in 1866, cost 254 lives. In this same year the George Canning went down with 96 lost. In 1854 the City of Glasgow got foundered, resulting in the loss of 480 lives. In 1860 the wreck of the Hungarian cost 205 lives. In 1878 the Metropolis went down and carried 200 souls with her. In 1893 the Naronic was lost in the Atlantic and with her 70 lives were lost. In 1856 the Pacific sunk and 186 passengers perished in the water. In 1878 Pommerania lost 38 passengers. In 1874 the Schiller lost 300. In 1888 the Geiser was struck by the Thingvalla and 105 passengers perished. Again, in 1888, the Sud-America was sunk in collision, drowning 105 passengers. In 1873, as the result of a collision, the Ville du Havre took down 226 souls.

An historic ocean calamity was the the sinking of the Arctic. She was the crack ship of the Collins line, an American firm, and was built in New York. Leaving Liverpool on Sept. 20, 1854, she was struck when seven days out by the French screw steamer Vesta. The Arctic was worked by paddles. Of more than four hundred passengers about one-tenth escaped. Some seventy of the passengers were transferred, just as the ship was sinking, to a large raft. A passenger named McCabe was eventually the only person of this whole number to reach land. Here is an extract from his story:

"The sea, though not strong, was rough, and the waves, as they rushed remorselessly over the raft, washed away a portion of its living freight. Of those who dropped away, some floated off and were gnawed and eaten by fishes, while others were washed under the raft, where their faces could be seen through the opening as they were swayed to and fro by the waves. The raft at one time was so crowded that many had to hold on by one hand. Very few words were spoken by any, and the only sound to be heard was the splash of the waters or the heavy breathing of the poor sufferers, as they tried to recover their breath after a wave had passed over them. Nearly all were submerged to their armpits while a few could with difficulty keep their heads above the surface.

"The women were the first to go They were unable to stand the exposure more than three or four hours. They all fell off the raft without a word, except one poor girl, who cried out in intense agony: 'Oh, my poor mother and sisters!'"

At the end of the day McCabe was the only person left alive on the raft. During the night of the second day he was rescued by the second officer and some sailors of the Arctic in a boat. Not a single woman of the Arctic's passengers was saved.

The steamship Central America, when she left Aspinwall for New York on Sept. 3, 1857, carried more than four hundred passengers and $2,000,000 of treasure, shipped from San Francisco. She encountered one of the fiercest gales ever known, sprang aleak and sank off Cape Hatteras on Sept. 12. Three fourths of her passengers and all her cargo were lost. Several vessels came to the assistance of the Central America in her distress, but were only able to save 157 passengers.

The Atlantic, of the White Star line, when she sailed from Liverpool for New York on March 20, 1873, had on board 931 persons. Equinoctial gales of great violence caused the captain to make a course for Halifax, N. S. In the night of April 1 she struck the rocks near Meagher's island. Many of the passengers and crew were rescued by boats and life-lines, but 481 perished. More than a hundred steerage passengers were drowned in their berths.

QUAY COUNTY BILL PASSES THE SENATE.

In the Senate last week the bill to make a new county out of portions of Luzerne and Schuylkill excited a lively discussion between its author, Senator Kline, of Luzerne, and Senator Coyle, of Schuylkill, the latter making a stubborn fight to have it amended so as to permit the electors of the counties interested to vote on the question. Mr. Kline contended that the opposition was largely confined to lawyers and hotel-keepers who feared they would suffer financially if the bill passed. The amendment of Mr. Coyle received but ten votes, and the bill was passed finally by a vote of 35 to 5.

Weather Prophet DeVoe's Prophecy.

"Our present winter will not break up during February, but it will be an extremely cold month, with the exception of a few mild days. There will be several heavy snow storms, and the street-cleaning commissioners will have their hands full to keep the streets from being blocked with snow.

"The month of February will enter with snow followed by a cold wave on the 3d. But between the 5th and 8th there will be a mild spell, fogs and some rain on the 8th. On the 9th there will be a great change, and a cyclone will move up the coast, followed by a blizzard from the 11th to the 13th. Snow blockages will greatly impede travel.

"After the 14 there will be a few days of mild weather, but no break up. On the 17 more snow. After the 18th it will grow mild, and from the 19th to the 23d there will be a continuous fog and some rain. On the 24th another blizzard will suddenly decend upon us, followed by a very cold wave on the 26th, and the ice-dealers will be able to cut another crop of ice. The month will close cold."

In the course of senatorial proceedings, on the 11th instant Mr. Pettigrew introduced a joint resolution directing legal proceedings to be instituted against the stockholders and directors of the Union and the Central Pacific railroad companies for the recovery of amounts diverted or converted by them to any unlawful purpose and for the foreclosure of the government mortgages. He asked that it be laid on the table, and said he would undertake to show that the methods of railroad companies to rob their stockholders and bondholders have done more than anything else to effect the credit of the country.

The diseases he treats are Consumption, all Bronchial Affections, Loss of Manhood, Crooked Limbs, Wry Necks, Barrenness, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Syphilis, Eye and Ear Diseases, Skin Diseases, Neuralgia, Bright's Disease, Ulcers and Old Sores of every description, Rheumatism, either acute or chronic, Sick Headache, Epilepsy, Gastritis, Congestion, Canker, Tonsilitis, Deafness, St. Vitus' Dance, Impediment of Speech, Loss of Voice, Stuttering, Cancer of the Stomach, Piles, Jaundice, Constipation, Biliousness, Dysentery, Chronic Diarrhœa, Chills and Fever, Fistula, Bilious Colic, Paralysis, Heart Disease, Intestinal Worms and Liver Complaints.

DR. MacTAGGART is the only specialist this side of New York, Philadelphia and Buffalo, who makes an exclusive specialty of treating Chronic Cases and the Diseases of Women. Those who have been suffering for years should call at once and learn whether their ailment can be cured or not. No cases received unless they can be cured or greatly helped.

What Dr. MacTaggart HAS DONE AND IS DOING.

The Doctor wishes the public to understand that he is not soliciting the ordinary run of cases, but desires just such diseases to treat that other physicians cannot succeed with or at least fail to cure. When you suffer from such consult HIM (consultation is free), have him thoroughly diagnose your case, and then what he tells you can be relied upon as a fact beyond refutation. Some may say, "Why go to Dr. MacTaggart when we have as good doctors here as anywhere?" Yes, so you have in their line of practice, but not in those specialties that Dr. MacTaggart is schooled and practiced in. In support of this unqualified assertion read his testimonials—not only read them, but investigate the truthfulness of them. Where are the physicians who can remove cancers without pain and cure it beyond peradventure? He does it. Where can you find another physician in Pennsylvania who can remove tumors of even 60 pounds weight without the use of the knife, without pain, and without leaving a scar? Dr. MacTaggart does it. What physician can cure fistulas without cutting or causing the least pain or soreness during treatment? Dr. MacTaggart does it successfully. These are golden truths—golden because it proves beyond dispute that the science of medicine in specialties particularly, is advancing with rapid strides far in the lead of the regular practioner. 1-18-1y.

MONEY LOANED

Do you want to borrow money on equitable terms?

Do you desire to pay off a mortgage and re-borrow the money at 5 per cent. interest annually?

Would you care to be so situated that you could reduce the mortgage against your home by paying off a small amount monthly and at the end of each year receive credit for all paid? With interest being charged only on remaining portion of loan.

Would you like to buy your family a home? If so, read the following:

I represent a company that has embodied in its plan all the features enumerated above and many more. Can you see any reason why you should pay a large interest for money when you have good security? Can you present any good reason why it is not as well to receive profits yearly as to wait from 7 to 10 years as one does in many of the Associations? Is not the reduction of interest yearly better than waiting many years for profits? Borrowers under the plan represented by me assume absolutely no risk as each $1.00 paid on the loan is credited on the mortgage, thereby reducing it in proportion to the amount paid.

Building Associations have benefitted hundreds of thousands, so did the old cars that were propelled by horses. Our plan is as far superior to Building Associations as the trolley cars are to the old antiquated horse car system. My time is too much occupied to answer questions for the curious, but those seeking information for the betterment of their condition will receive full information promptly. We offer an investment to those who have a small amount to save monthly that has no superior as to safety and seldom equaled for profits. Call or write.

It is said the continuous cold snap has snapped so many pipes and kept the plumbers so busy in Englewood that they have no time to make out their bills after the old process. All the complexity, perplexity and formality of the Baker ballot system is only fully understood by those who have to straighten the blunders, arrange the papers and print the ballots. Miss Boecker, the only female rescued from the lost Elbe, was given an audience and heartily welcomed by the ex-Empress Frederick, the Queen, and the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, on the 11th inst. Buckhorn, "where the ships come in" in fair weather, was also for a time somewhat isolated from the outer world because of the recent blizzard and bank-up of snow. It took twenty men some time to open up communication with this inland retreat. But they say they got there, and consequently traffic has resumed operations.

Again we have to inquire what's the matter with our weather prophets that they have failed to remind and prepare us for the recent misbehavior of weather? Though DeVoe made daily predictions for February, he has only guessed right three times thus far. Three hits to a dozen misses will soon ruin the reputation of any prophet. Prophets proper are supposed to be infallible.

A wail of desolation again comes up from the south because of the damage done to fruit trees, vegetables, &c., that is even more pitiable than that occasioned by the first cold wave of which they had no warning whatever. As a matter of pity for the unprepared in the south we would suggest that our weather prophets bend a little more energy in that direction, and at least give these people a chance to bank what few cellars they have before they are entirely froze out. Political prejudice should not influence the true prophet.

No class of men or women have more detestation of the conventional Irish comedy with its impossible Irishmen, and counterfeit Irishwomen, than the Irish people themselves, and they appreciate a play bereft of these and clothed in a dress that reminds them of Ireland as it is and Irishmen as they are. So, when such a portrait of Irish life as is presented by John E. Brennan in "Tim the Tinker," its reception is sure to be as warm as the people can make it. Mr. Brennan's presentation of the leading part of the young Irish tinker, is certainly a revelation. Play and star are pure, clean, instructive and true to nature; you will always remember his pleasant face.

William Stine, of Fishing Creek Valley, assaulted Harry McClain's wife and then Harry McClain assaulted Wm. Stine's wife. The fracas was tried in Harrisburg recently, and McClain was convicted and Stine was acquitted. The cost was equally divided,

While coasting is fun, it is generally attended with more or less danger, which parents and children should remember. Newspapers are teeming with recorded arcidents resulting from a wreckless indulgence in this sport. Bloomsburg presents some fine opportunities for injury.

The blockading of the country roads leading to towns and cities reminds town folks out of butter, eggs, milk, &c., that it would be a little difficult to live on the top of the heap if country folks should ever corner and withold their products as other industries do in order to enhance the price of their wares.

The Hyde Park man who on a wager tried to drink a glass of water in the open air is under treatment for frost-bite of the larnyx and esophagus. He should have observed the danger before he thus ruthlessly tackled water. But some folks never can see danger until they are punished for their indiscretion.

A New Jersey patriot named Duncan, member of the Legislature, is so opposed to the high hats and big sleeves worn by the modern lady in places of public amusement that he has a bill now on the calendar which prohibits them so far as New Jersey soil extends. This seems a little too sumptuary and arbitrary for a woman's rights woman to look at squarely and maintain a winning smile.

The oldest inhabitant who has been accustomed for a life-time to look in certain places for snow drifts is nonplused by the irregular action of the recent blizzard. The drifts are to be seen all right, but not in their accustomed places. The fierce elements seem to have given them another twist and piled the snow banks in some cases where the oldest inhabitant never saw them before to any such extent.

Though the record of Rome is rather antique she has just begun to turn out female lawyers. Signorina Labriola is the enphonious name of the first female lawyer to graduate from the University of Rome. She is just two years beyond sweet sixteen and has never yet come in contact with the typical Philadelphia graduate of this country. The more is the pity for her, as she has much to learn in spite of her high honors and Rome graduation.

While crazy drunk Joseph Courter, of Newark, N. J., recently shot and mortally wounded his wife and then went to slashing himself with a razor until it hurt, when he quit. After being out on a drunken debauch about all night he brutally attacked his wife in the morning as she lay in bed with her 2 year-old baby. There is no hope of her recovery, but Courter, having injured himself but little, will live to repeat his crimes, no doubt, on others.

Orphans' Court officers must allow newspaper reporters to copy all marriage licenses. That's what Judge Bland, of Reading, holds. He thinks they should all be published for the good of society. To license by stealth might be to marry by stealth, and this is what the law endeavors to avoid. Its likely the Judge is right about it. But there was a time when young people used to think it was nobohy's business but their own, and they don't take any too kindly to public announcement in some cases even yet.

Even bad dogs may trace their ownership to the highest officials in this country. A dog belonging to a son of ex-President Hayes ran out, as dogs not so very bad will sometimes do, and it frightened Mrs. Ada Smith's horse. The horse ran away, and Mrs. Smith now puts her damages at $25,000 in consequence; and it now remains for the children of the ex-President to show cause why they should not plank down the cash if they want to keep a dog that thus barks and frightens horses that only want a half an excuse to run away.

Some difficulty has been experienced in getting the Bloomsburg ballots in such shape that they might meet with the approbation of everybody. It is not likely that such a result has been reached, but the tickets as printed have the sanction of the county commissioners, the chairmen of both parties, and several other persons competent to decide the proper form. The difficulty arises from the fact that there are three different laws that must be consulted, namely, the Baker ballot law, Town of Bloomsburg law, and Bloom Poor District law.

The blizzard was too much for the long horned Sing Sing antelope of the Philadelphia Zoological Garden. It sickened and died of pneumonia. His mate is now critically ill with the same ailment. The old female jaguar also perished along with some porcupines who thought such a life was not worth living. The orang outangs occupied warmer quarters and the buffaloes found no fault with the coldest part of the blizzard. They are reported as having turned tail to the wind and laughed it to scorn and appeared happier than at any time since their imprisonment.

It is not pleasant to print dunning notices in the paper, and we avoid it as much as possible, but when an examination of our books shows that that there is a large amount outstanding that is needed in our business, the necessity of calling attention to it is forced upon us. The times are hard, and for that reason we have been just as lenient as possible, but expenses are heavy, and when money does not come in fast enough to pay them, we must ask for what is due. All subscribers who owe for a year or more will please settle before April 1st. Statements of the amount due will be sent through the paper to those who are in arrears, and prompt payment is requested. tf.

Our statesmen in conclave assembled are resolved to see to it that the countrymen leave the fish of their own waters and the game of their own woods alone long enough to accumulate for people who have more time to fish and hunt than farmers are supposed to have. The fish and game laws of Pennsylvania will be arranged with a view to good hunting and fishing in the future, no doubt. What the ruralist needs to do is to watch himself closely to see that he don't violate the game and fish laws on his own premises. If he will take care to do this fish and game will be more plentiful, no doubt, when hunters who know how to hunt condescend to come to the country for fish and game and a little fresh air and water.

"To them who by patient continuance in well doing seek for glory and honor and immortality, eternal life." This blessed promise and assurance, found in Romans, 2d chapter, 7th verse, was very impressively enlarged upon by Rev. P. A. Heilman last Sunday. He preached to a good and an attentive audience. Both the congregational and the choir singing was piously impressive. The choir made up of a quartet of singers rendered one hymn particularly sweet and appropriate to the occasion. While the pastor justified all laudabie pride and ambition he still recognized the possibility of too much anxiety about the vanities of life and our personal h onor and glory. But the patient in well doing have nothing to unduly crave or fear, either in this life or that to come. Eternal life is the blessed assurance and in a brief sermon he made it clear.

Valuable Real Estate at Private Sale.

The undersigned offer for sale the property on East street, occupied by Miss Kinney, the lot fronting on East and Catharine streets. The house can easily be moved from front to rear end of lot as the building is in three separate frames. Built of good oak and yellow pine timber. The front would make a desirable location for any kind of business. The above property will be put up at public sale on March 9th, at one o'clock, if not disposed of sooner. Also the square on Iron and Fourth streets is offered at private sale. It is one of the most valuable properties in Bloomsburg, as it lays as near the centre of the town as may be and in a desirable location.

The Clothiers.

It is apparent to the close observer that there is quite as much theoretical as there is practical christianity today. It may also be observed that there is policy as well as principle in the pulpit without a very close search to see it. Where the advancement of the minister depends upon the additions he can make to his flock and the amount of money he collects from the faithful there is a burning disposition to increase the flock and gather in the collections. The temptation is to make a temporary conviction answer the same purpose as a permanent conversion; for conference makes no distinction between those who are convicted at every protracted meeting—and who need it badly—and those genuine cases of earnest sincerity who manage to make a genuine conversion carry through to the end of life. If there is watered stock in commercial affairs there is vain ambition and watered stock in the religious struggle also.

Lumber Too Cheap.

Spruce lumber is too cheap it is said, by the East and North lumber combine. On the 8th inst., when the blizzard was ugliest, they met at the hub of the universe (Boston), and so resolved. They ought to know, for the lumbermen present claim to represent about seventy-five million dollars worth of lumber, saw-mills, &c., in this country. They have their money invested and they are looking after their interests individually and collectively. It was the unanimous opinion that spruce lumber was selling too low, and a new scale of prices was adopted to straighten the matter up some. Then again, the Southern Lumber Manufacturers' Association is billed to convene in Memphis on February 20, and the liberal rates of fare given by the railroads guarantee the largest attendance in the history of the association. Among the important matters to be considered will be the pine trust which has been formed by lumbermen in Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

The Marriage of the Female Switch-tender.

Miss Annie P. Grandtner, well known to railroad men as "Switch Annie," is now a bride, and no doubt still has a fair prospect of looking after the switches. She married Charley Green, a railroad man, on the 25th of last month. For years she enjoyed the distinction of being the only female switch-tender in this country. She rather inherited the employment through the death of her father with whom she spent her childhood days about the switches. For about 15 years previous to marriage she was engaged by the St. Paul road to attend the most complicated set of switches they had; and no accident ever happened at her post of duty, though her father was killed near the switches. Being left without means at the time of his death she sunceeded to his position and now at the age of 32 she is Mrs. Green, who ought to know something about switching if it becomes necessary.

Fashion and Economy.

Ladies, look to the fashion and wear mosquetaire sleeves that wrinkle from wrist to elbow and then from the elbow to the shoulder. See to it that they are cut like a very full leg of mutton and have gathers galore and a graceful droop from the shoulder. The man is not yet born who can stand such a get up (if it covers the right kind of a looking girl) without admiring it. He can't do it; depend upon it. Then again, the Illustrated American says, in a way somewhat calculated to needlessly wound the pride, that a very economical way of giving one's old skirts the necessary flare to be smart is to buy a hair-cloth petticoat and wear it with all one's passe gowns. It does away with a vast amount of labor which putting the stiffening in several skirts would entail, and the effect is quite as good and the expense much less.

Ladies' Fancy Waists for Early Spring.

With the growing taste for fancy waists wholly independent of the skirt the problem of economical dressing becomes susceptible of an easy solution this season. The same skirt can be made to serve more than one purpose, and on the other hand, the bodice not being compelled to conform in style to the latter, may be put to several uses. This distinction between the two parts of the costume is greatly facilitated by the new materials. Thus, the highly artistic broche crepon of latest importations is admirably suited to skirts both stylish in appearance and practical for every day wear. The McDowell Fashion Magazines just received contain many designs of new models of bodices as well as skirts, which render them unusually attractive this month. A practical feature of these journals is their special coupon patterns which are purposely adapted to the popular taste for novelties in combination. "La Mode de Paris" and "Paris Album of Fashion" are the leading Fashion Magazines. They cost $3.50 each for a year's subscription, or 35 cents per copy; "The French Dress-maker" is always the great favorite among professional as well as amateur dressmakers. It costs $3.00 per annum, or 30 cts. a copy. "La Mode," a Magazine of unsurpassed popularity is only $1.50 a year, or 15 cents a copy. If you are unable to procure either of these journals from your newsdealer do not take any substitute from him, but apply by mail directly to Messrs. McDowell & Co., 4 West 14th Street, New York.

Railroads don't pay as well as they used to. Lightning and competitive days seem to have struck them, as witness the following:

A RAILROAD TO BE SOLD.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 4.—The Western New York and Pennsylvania railroad, covering 639 miles of track in addition to equipments, will be sold to-morrow at ten o'clock by the United States Marshal. The foreclosure of mortgages forces the sale of the property. It has been in the hands of a receiver since 1887.—The Patriot.

Chapped Lips.

"Can I keep my lips from chapping?"
Queried Marion, young and gay,
"Papa says I can, if only
I will keep the chaps away."

"But," she smiled and blushed in smiling,
To her dainty finger tips,
"If the chaps can not come near them
What's the use of nice red lips?"

Threats of Retrenchment.

Sad intimations are now spreading abroad from Harrisburg that the Governor will not sign the bills arranged as usual for legislative junkets, picnic, &c., at the expense of the State Treasury. If the National Congress would come to the same conclusion the difference between the national receipts and expenditures would be quite a shade less.

The Coming Soprano.

And this is how Miss Katharine Willard, the friend and schoolmate and present guest of Mrs. Cleveland, appeared to an interviewing correspondent of the New York World:

Miss Willard is very, very pretty, and when, a few days ago, she received me in the private library of the White House she made a sweet picture, with her bronze hair piled in waves over a low brow, and her brown eyes looking out cordially from a face flushed with a rosy glow.

The White House library, where Miss Willard received her guest, is an upstairs room—big and old-fashioned. Around its sides are old mahogany book-cases, large, old arm-chairs and dark wood sofas made in the comfortable tints and fashions of long ago.

Across the hall are the rooms where the White House children play, and though no one is allowed to catch a glimpse of them, one can hear the White House children play, and, the patter of their little feet over the soft carpets.

Regarding her work, Miss Willard said: "I expect to sing in public only a short time. From here I go to Philadelphia, then to Orange, in New Jersey, then to Lakewood, in the same State, and afterward to Denver, St. Louis and St. Joseph. In these places I will sing in public; but not in the way such affairs are usually conducted, for everything will be done in a quiet way, and there will be no billboard advertising.

"I was born in Denver, but left there when a baby. My family then resided for a while in Evansville, near Chicago. When a girl, I went to Wells College with Mrs. Cleveland, and afterward studied music in Europe. In fact, my home is really across the water, but I have been there only occasionally in the last few years.

"During my tour of the States I shall be under the management of a lady. The concerts will be given in public halls, but they will be like private entertainments. In fact, I wish to make them as little public as possible. In the summer I expect to be married, and after that, while I shall, of course, keep up my musical studies, I shall no longer appear at any public entertainments."

Miss Willard's aunt is Miss Frances Willard, the lecturer on temperance. Miss Willard is engaged to a Mr. Baldwin, of New York. Her brother is the writer who, under the name of "Josiah Flynn," is contributing a series of papers on the "tramp question" to the Century and to Scribner's Magazine. He is in Venice at work on a novel. Miss Willard's mother and sister are in Berlin, which they consider the family home.

FROM PROMINENT PEOPLE.

A great many persons to our knowledge have voluntarily pronounced Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy successful in curing disease. Here are a number of statements that demonstrate the value of this medicine.

Commander James S. Dean, of Gen. Grant Post. G. A. R., Rondout, N. Y., contracted an aggravated stomach trouble, which resulted in chronic dyspepsia. He suffered misery until he used Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. "After using it a week," says Commander Dean, "I felt better, and in a short while was entirely cured, that terrible distress and food breaking up sour in my throat, had all gone."

Rev. I. W. Hill, Pastor Methodist Church Accord, N. Y.: "I can speak highly of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy as a blood medicine. Ten years ago I had a cancer removed from my lip. I then began the use of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy and to this day no sign of it has re-appeared."

The Sisters of Charity, St. Mary's Female Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y., say: "The satisfaction we realize from the use of Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy surpasses all expectation." The worst cases of eczema, salt rheum and scrofula yield to its curative power; nervousness, sleeplessness, liver and kidney complaints and all urinary troubles are cured by its use.

Glad to Meet Him.

"Drummer, air ye?" shouted the country merchant. "Git right down and come in to the stove. I'm glad to see yer."

The commercial man came in, with visions of selling a complete country store outfit, and the merchant continued:

"I'm right glad to see one of you fellers. My creditors jumped on me yesterday, and I'm sellin' out. I jist been achin' for one of you fellers to come along with them funny stories you always have and cheer me up."

And think, O friends, if you had but the brains, or knew enough to come in when it rains, if you were keen at grinding your own axes, if you knew how to enrich a town by taxes, if you knew how to make mean things look pretty, if you knew how to build a splendid city, instead of living plain and working hard, you'd own some land upon a boulevard.

"For know, poor fools, to build a first-class nation, the land must labor under high taxation. And as in nations men must take their classes, just so in this, there's wise men and there's asses. The wise men hold the most plethoric wallets, which others fill by virtue of their ballots. Here, in Bloomsburg, and surely more's the pity, wise men are moved to boom our glorious city. But quite as cunning as proverbial foxes, they raise no question for the ballot-boxes. Sometimes, indeed, conventions they invade, but, as a rule, they buy them ready-made.

"The pity lies in this, and tell your neighbor, that all our good must lie in private labor; that government, with all its power of taxes, is only good for grinding private axes, when swerved from well-known simple public uses, and slightly bent to favor pet abuses."

Game Protection.

The deer having been looked after by legislative enactment, the proposition of the Wilkes-Barre Gun Club to protect and perpetuate the pheasant, now nearly exterminated in this State, is embraced in the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, The ruffed grouse, the most gamey and heretofore the most abundant of the game birds of Pennsylvania, is upon the verge of extinction, a result of their wholesale slaughter in all parts of the commonwealth to supply the markets of this and other States; and,

WHEREAS, Experiment has demonstrated the impracticability of rearing these birds in captivity for the purpose of restocking depleted districts; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we urge upon the legislature the necessity of prompt action to prevent the extermination of these birds, and to that end we recommend the enactment of the bill entitled "An act for the protection of the ruffed grouse," drafted and approved by the association.

The new law provides that from and after the passage of this act and until the first day of January, 1905, it shall be unlawful, at any season of the year, to kill, or entrap any ruffed grouse in any part of this Commonwealth for the purpose of selling the same.

That during that period it shall be unlawful for any market or any other person to sell or expose for sale, or purchase for the purpose of selling, or of transporting to another State any ruffed grouse or pheasant killed or entrapped in this Commonwealth.

That in any prosecution it should be necessary only to prove the sale, exposition or purchase, or that it was killed or entrapped within this Commonwealth, and the burden of proving otherwise shall be upon the defendant.

Any person or persons offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding $300, and undergo an imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, or either.

We have heard of a man mean enough to steal acorns from a blind hog, but we got through about a half a life time without discovering his duplicate in meanness. The following Cincinnati case will come in on the home run about neck and neck with the hog man:

"There goes the meanest man in Cincinnati," exclaimed a rather tall man to his companion in front of the post office yesterday.

The man referred to was a rather elderly person, possibly in the fifties, and he wore a threadbare suit made from cheap cheviot cloth. His face was marked with many lines indicative of worry.

"Well," continued the speaker, "that man is many times a millionaire. He comes from the same town I do, and the other day he helped a blind man on the car and sat down beside him. The poor fellow thanked him, and, taking out the last dime he had in the world, he requested the millionaire to pay his fare. That man did so, and instead of handing the blind man back his five cents, he put it in his pocket, telling the man that that was his fee for services rendered."

The Difference Between High Hats.

Henry Jost, of St. Louis, attempted to solve the high hat problem at a theatre recently by putting on his own hat after a futile effort to see the stage over the high hats worn by ladies in front of him. After refusing to remove his hat when twice requested to do so, Jost was thrown out of the theatre by a "bouncer" and then he was fined $5 for disturbing the peace.

WASHINGTON.

Reed, of Maine, and His Financial Plan Ignored.--Secretary Carlisle and Prospective Surplus.--Treaty Relations with Japan.--No Specific Appropriations for Denominational Schools.--As to fund for Education of Indians, the Secretary of Interior will Control it.--Hawaii Continued.--Lieutenant General Schofield.--Retirement of Justice Jackson-House Changes.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, February 11, 1895.

Neither President Cleveland nor Secretary Carlisle was surprised at the action of the House on the financial bill. They were kept thoroughly posted on the sentiment of the democrats of the House, but there was an element of doubt as to how the republicans would vote, even after ex-speaker and Presidential candidate Reed made his great combination bid for the support of the silver men of the west and the gold men of the east, by offering a substitute, which he was pleased to call a non-partisan compromise, and to close his speech advocating it by asking the following Solomon-like questions:—"Now, why is not that the solution of our problem, without raising vexed questions which we know cannot be solved? Why is it not a practical solution of our trouble? Why is it not suitable in every way?" The lack of egotism and gall will never keep that man Reed out of anything. Nobody ever knew until he made that speech that he had in addition to his great literary and parliamentary accomplishments found time to completely master the complicated science of finance, and the House refused to believe it even after he said so.

Some Senators—not all of them republicans, either—were much disappointed at Secretary Carlisle's answer to the Senate resolution, asking whether there would be a deficiency in the estimated revenues of the government for the year ending December 31, 1895. Secretary Carlisle's answer was plain and flatfooted—there will be a comfortable surplus in the Treasury at the end of the year. Some of the republicans are still saying that it is the lack of revenue that is causing the depletion of the gold in the Treasury—probably following the rascally political axiom "A lie well stuck to is as good as the truth."

The Senate can act quick enough when so disposed. An instance of this promptness was given when the ratification of the Japanese treaty was re-considered and the treaty amended in accordance with Secretary Gresham's request. The Senate had amended the treaty so as to give either nation the right to abrogate it after one year's notice. The Japanese Minister said his country would object to that clause, because it gave this country an opportunity, if so disposed, to abrogate the treaty before it was even put into operation. The treaty does not go into effect until 1899. Secretary Gresham and the Senators thought the objection well founded; hence the last amendment, which gives either country the right to abrogate the treaty by one year's notice, after the treaty has gone into operation.

The subcommittee of the Senate which is in charge of the Indian appropriation bill has had no end of trouble about appropriations for sectarian schools. The Catholics claimed that the Lincoln Institute at Philadelphia, and the Hampton Institute at Hampton, Va., for both of which specific appropriations were made by the bill as it passed the House, are sectarian schools, one Episcopalian and the other Congregational, and asked that specific appropriations for some of their schools be added to the bill. The subcommittee settled the matter by striking out all specific appropriations for denominational schools, and leaving the question of sending Indian children to any of them discretionary with the Secretary of the Interior. In other words, for him to spend the money appropriated for the education of the Indians as he may think best.

More Hawaii! It seems to be a veritable old man of the sea saddled upon the back of Congress, and it is certainly becoming tiresome. This time the amendment to the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill authorizing the President to enter into a contract for the laying of a cable to Honolulu was text upon which the Hawamaniacs preached, but they by no means confined themselves to the text. The whole field had to be gone over, including Lil's abdication to save her head.

President Cleveland promptly nominated Gen. Schofield to be Lt. General, on the same day that he signed the bill restoring that grade to the army. General Schofield, who is deservedly popular, is being overwhelmed with congratulations.

One of the bills pending in Congress that is almost certain to become a law is that providing for the retirement on account of bad health of Justice Jackson, of the U. S. Supreme Court. It is not believed by those who know his present condition that he will ever be able to resume his duties again.

Not since the war has there been so many changes in the personnel of the House during a single Congress as have taken place in the present one. Thirty of the members elected there to are now out of it, eleven of them having died, sixteen resigned, and three having been unseated. How about that office-holders chestnut, "few die and none resign?" But in this case every resignation was to take another office.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

The discomfort that some females will take in their dress, &c., to attract the attention of males is quite fully exemplified in the following from Kentucky:

A pretty 18 year-old girl created quite a sensation in the East End yesterday; and for an hour a score of men watched her as she glided about on the ice. She was a graceful skater, and every movement was Delsartean in its perfection. It was not her grace and beauty that attracted the men. It was her bare feet, which gleamed in and out beneath her skirt as each foot was thrust gracefully forward. The foot was such a one as described by Du Maurier in his "Trilby." The coloring was perfect, and now and then as the wind switched her skirts the glimpse of a perfect ankle, and, sometimes, even the swell of a shapely calf was seen. It was this that attracted the men. They wondered that the cold did not make her suffer, but it seemed unnoticed. Her mother finally appeared, and, after much cheerful persuasion and a little force, the girl was induced to remove her skates, don her shoes and stockings, and leave. With her departure the crowd rapidly dwindled away.—Louisville Post.

Pennsylvania Railroad's Tours to "The Golden Gate."

Apart from the rare pleasure of visiting new places and witnessing novel scenes, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's tours to California will prove better educators than any number of lectures or books on travel. The immense scope of territory traversed will expand the ideas of all tourists, indelibly impress upon their minds enlarged views of this mighty Union and its vast possessions, and they will return to their homes prouder than ever of the great land whose borders are protected by the Stars and Stripes.

These tours have been arranged under the company's renowned personally-conducted tourist system, and magnificent Pullman trains will leave New York and Philadelphia on February 20 and March 20, 1895.

Detailed itinerary will be sent on application to Tourist Agent, 1196 Broadway, New York, or Room 411, Broad Street Station, Philadelphia.

Important Facts.

If you have dull and heavy pain across forehead and about the eyes; if the nostrils are frequently stopped up and followed by a disagreeable discharge; if soreness in the nose and bleeding from the nostrils is often experienced; if you are very sensitive to cold in the head accompanied with headache; then you may be sure you have catarrh; and should—(immediately)—resort to Ely's Cream Balm for a cure. The remedy will give instant relief.

Genuine Olympic Games Now Promised Us

A so-called London gentleman has contributed from the superfluity of cash in his exchequer about $2,000 to revive the Olympic games. Foot ball and base ball are entirely to tame and base for him. But the question recurs to the sporting fraternity in charge of the fund, are these games to really revive the barbaric contests of old with mad bulls and roaring lions, or are they to be softened with only spirited hurdle races and foot ball, where there is some little chance for the survival of the truly heroic fighter and rider.

THE STOCK FARM.

There are but few herds that pay $50 per cow a year, and this is due to the unprofitable cows that are kept with those that are more productive. Breeders of thoroughbred stock aim to secure enormous yields, and thus make stock pay.

If an animal costs as much to keep it over winter as the profit amounts to, the only gain to the farmer is in the manure, but this depends on the labor bestowed. There is a loss in keeping any animal which takes up the room that should be occupied by a better one.

Very young horses should never be overloaded unless it is desired to ruin them, which certainly is not conducive to their value. Colts that have been but recently broken are treated by some in the same manner as horses, and they either break down early, meet with some misfortune which causes a defect, or balk when overloaded.

It is said that fast Atlantic steamers bring choice mutton to this country from Great Britain. If this is true it indicates that we should aim to put more quality into our mutton by breeding from the mutton breeds. Thousands of sheep reach our large markets that have been used mostly for producing wool, and which are unfit to be classed as choice animals for mutton.

While veterinary surgeons and the farmers are disputing over the matter of the prevalence of tuberculosis in cattle it behooves each farmer to aim to have only healthy stock. It does not require but a short time to eradicate a disease if there is a determination to get rid of it. At the same time the farmers should not be compelled to sacrifice their stock on suspicion alone.

When hogs are crowded during very cold weather some of them are liable to be crushed, especially if they are not well sheltered and kept warm. Every farmer knows that when hogs are very fat and unwieldy they are almost helpless, and when several large ones happen to get one of their number under them there is but little chance for it to escape.

This is the season to make tests with corn fodder as a food. It has been found excellent for horses when the fodder has been cut, crushed, and fed with ground grain, and steers have been kept over winter in good condition with it. There is the labor of preparing it to be considered, but experiments with corn fodder will no doubt show that it is too valuable to be wasted in the shocks, as is the case on a large number of farms.

THE COW-TAIL HOLDER.

A Wisconsin Man Fills a Long-felt Want by His Invention.

Persons whose avocation lies partly in milking cows are well aware of the great annoyance caused by the animal switching her tail about promiscuously, notably in fly time. The annoyance is multiplied in case the tail is dirty or wet, which is very often the case. The end of the tail either takes the milkers in the face or neck or flirts into the milk pail; perhaps both events happen.

The present device, which is here illustrated, has been patented by Mr. Joseph Cooper, of Racine, Wis. It is the most rationally constructed device for the purpose that has yet been contrived, being effective and convenient to a great degree. It is also very simple to manufacture. A strip of elastic sheet metal is bent to form a circle, the meeting extremities being rounded apart to form easy contact points. Two oppositely disposed pieces are riveted to the circular clasp, the free ends projecting to form handles, the compression of which within the hand grasp opens the clasp points well apart and allows the device to be slipped on the tail, and then the rounded points are allowed to close within the deep recesses of the gambrel joint, where they take secure hold. The operation is very easy, and will effectually confine the tail during the milking operation. This device should sell on sight if put on the market.

New Way of Washing.

"I have found," said one of those modern housekeepers whose ideas would horrify her maternal ancestors if they could but hear them, "that elbow grease, when applied to laundry work, is not the much-to-be-praised thing that I have always been brought up to believe it was, and that in some cases it is a detriment to successful and careful washing," puotes the Milwaukee Journal. "By dint of many experiments I have discovered that a small table or a flat board and a soft small scrubbing brush will work wonders. I can take an ordinary garment with collar and sleeves badly soiled and cleanse it by this process in one-third of the time and with infinitely less hard work than the average laundress. I make a mixture of soap and kerosene oil and let it stand over night, or prepare it and keep it in a stopped jug or bottle. With a soft brush rub the collar and cuffs and all the soiled places, then roll the garment up for a few minutes while others are being done. When all are prepared, begin with the first and rinse and brush the surface with hot soapsuds. In nine cases out of ten the garment will need no further rubbing. I do not approve of clothes being merely scalded. They need not be boiled for any length of time, but should have about one to three minutes in actually boiling suds. This dissolves any gummy substance that may not rub out of the fibres and makes the clothes more clean and certainly more healthful. Clothes soaked over night in warm suds made with the soap and kerosene mixture, will wash easier and look better, to say nothing of wearing much longer, than those laundered in the ordinary way."

A BOSTON GIRL'S LIFE

Saved from Ruin and Despair by the Timely Aid of a Noted Woman.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

IS there anything more truly pathetic than the cry for help that springs from the anguished heart of a young girl—a beautiful girl who sees ahead only suffering and uncertainty?

But oh, what joy and gladness her young heart pours forth when she realizes that her dreaded enemy, the blasting influence, is gone,—banished forever.

This sunshine and joy is now the happy portion of Miss Florence ——— of Beacon Street, Boston.

She often tells of her suffering from the suppression of the menses. The pain was excruciating. The doctors, instead of removing the cause of her ailment, plied her each month with morphine to prevent convulsions; but the trouble was permitted to exist.

When she could endure no more,—prostration was imminent and future hopeless,—her family procured a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which, surprising to all, rapidly and permanently cured her.

In writing to Mrs. Pinkham, pouring forth her gratitude and happiness, she says: "Oh! that I could make every suffering woman try your valuable medicine! How they would bless you!"

Having some two years ago fallen from a load of hay and injured his left ankle and foot he suffered more or less from it ever since. In fact so bad was the injury that the family physician said that amputation was his only hope for relief. But Galbraith stubbornly refused to give the doctor the job. He seemed to have the thing revolved and cornered in his own mind. As Della, his daughter, entered his room one morning last week he surprised her completely by saying: "Della, the job's done; the foot is amputated." Sure enough, on the bed by his side lay his foot. On the other side was a razor his only surgical implement. The old man had quietly amputated his own foot with his razor; and he did it so neatly, too, as a joint amputation, that the doctor is forced to admit he could not have taken the foot off more neatly himself. Some folks are troubled with amputation shocks, but farmer Galbraith, who is doing very well indeed, is not troubled in that way.

In his proclamation to Congress the President makes a clear exposition of both the debit and credit of the government. As to the adjustment of the present money stingency, the trouble lies in the great diversity of style of congressional financiering. The conflict of interests and sections should be swallowed up in patriotic effort for the common good; but it aint swallowed. Had the common good been kept at heart in the past, the showing would now be far different.

Prof. Hazen, of the Washington Weather Bureau, gives it as his scientific conclusion that cold waves originate (likely) from a downrush of rarified air from the frigid regions aloft. The frigid regions just now seem to be sending down more rarified air of that kind than is strictly necessary for comfort. But the great consolation comes in through the positive fact that grip is entirely froze out. It can't exist below zero.

Thus far the Brooklyn strike has resulted in many injuries, considerable property destroyed and hundreds of thousands of dollars lost to labor and to capital, besides the great inconvenience to the traveling public.

A gentleman that loves to hear himself talk, will speak more in a minute than he will stand to in a month.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures.

Almost every neighborhood contains some one who has been helped by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Mrs. J. Tinley Mullen, of Clearfield, Pa., writes under date of Nov. 28th, as follows: "Last winter our oldest boy had the mumps after which he got cold and it turned to diphtheria. We did not think he could get well, and after he did recover he had not sufficient strength to walk. He had no appetite and we got a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla and he began taking it. In three days he was able to eat as well as usual My husband had catarrh of the throat and the doctors could not relieve him so he took Hood's Sarsaparilla and he has not been troubled since. Last spring I had a pain across my kidneys which troubled me a great deal and I was also afflicted with swelling in my throat: I took two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and a box of Hood's Vegetable Pills, and have no such troubles since.

La Gascogne, the Missing Vessel, Safe.

QUARANTINE, L. I., Feb. 12.—La Gascogne is safe. The big French liner, eight days overdue, dropped anchor at the bar just before midnight. All well on board.

The delay was due to a broken piston rod and to the terrific gales which have swept the North Atlantic for the past week or more, and brought disaster to many a staunch craft.

Captain Baudelon brought the ship through the gales and made port without help. From the time they left Havre on January 26, until Feb. 11, they spoke no trans-Atlantic steamer and saw only a four-masted schooner, the one which reported at St. Pierre, Miquelon, N. S., as having seen a large steamer off the banks apparently in distress last Saturday.

The steamer left Havre January 26. On the first day out 449 miles were logged; on the second day 407 miles; on the third day after traveling 380 miles, the piston rod broke and eighteen hours were spent in making repairs.

When they were completed the ship steamed at nine miles an hour, making in all sixty miles on the twenty-ninth. On the thirtieth, thirty first and February 1st, 215, 255 and 280 miles a day were made, respectively.

On February 2 the piston rod broke down again. The break was more serious this time. Sea anchors were put out and for forty one hours the ship was hove to making repairs.

On the fourth the first severe weather was experienced and the ship was blown 150 miles out of her course. On the fifth, the repairs having been completed, 103 miles were made.

The ship was then clear to the northward of the track of the trans-Atlantic steamers and was therefore not seen by the many steamers which passed over the regular track. On February 6 169 miles were made.

On the seventh the machinery broke down for the third time. The heavy cyclone struck her on that day and the ship lay hove to with sea anchors out all day.

No headway was made and owing to the motion of the ship repairs were difficult. On the next day the chief engineer, who had been at his post day and night, completed the repairs and the ship proceeded 131 miles.

On the ninth, for the fourth time, the machinery broke down and only seventy four miles were made. On the tenth 150 miles were made and to the great rejoicing of all on board Fire Island was at last sighted and the ship crept up to her anchorage off the bar.

The news of the vessel's safety was hailed with delight expressed in various ways by all nationalities. A Mr. Riche, of New York, having three daughters on board, broke down completely upon receipt of the glad tidings, he having previously abandoned all hope. The signals displayed on the missing boat signified that she was disabled and unmanageable. The Bolivia brought word of her safety and anchorage off Shinnecock Light, after futile attempt to proceed under her own steam.
